J. P. MORGAN SHOT BY MAN BECAUSE OF HIS ACTIVITY WITH THE ALLIES

Would-be Assassin Practically Identified as Frank Holt, Former Cornell Professor.

MYSTERY ABOUT HIS WOUNDS

One Statement Says Bullet Entered His Chest and Another That it Penetrated Groin.

ASSAILED AT GLEN COVE HOME

Financier Grapples With Slender Man and Overpowers Him After Three Shots Are Fired.

(By United Press.)

New York, July 3.—An ominous air of mystery concerning the extent of the injuries of J. P. Morgan shot by a would-be assassin in his Glen Cove summer home this morning, was not cleared late today. Although the family repeatedly stated that the wounds were not serious, it was believed this was to allay fears as long as the stock market was open.

There were two statements as to his wounds. One said that a bullet entered the chest and came out under the arm. It was definitely known that a bullet entered the groin and came out through the thigh.

A sensational development this afternoon was the practically complete identification of Morgan's assailant as Frank Holt, a German-American, who was until recently a professor in the German department of Cornell university.

The prisoner gave that as his name and told of his previous connection with Cornell. Inquiry at Ithaca confirmed this and brought a description that closely tallied with the prisoner. Holt left Cornell at the end of the recent college term and had accepted an engagement to teach next year in Dallas, Texas.

The prisoner this afternoon said he shot Morgan because of Morgan's part in supplying the allies with munitions of war.

"I shot him as a service to humanity. I am willing to die for it because the war must be stopped. Morgan was the man who started it and he could stop it at any time," he said.

Physicians observing the prisoner declared him mentally unbalanced. It became known this afternoon that British Ambassador Spring-Rice was a guest at the Morgan home and witnessed the shooting. He and Morgan were at breakfast when the man forced his way in.

No explanation was offered concerning the presence of the British ambassador except that he was a visitor at Morgan's home. It is public knowledge, however, that Morgan has been handling practically all of the war contracts in America for England and the other allies.

That Morgan's wounds are more serious than has been admitted was indicated by the fact that Dr. Lyle, head of St. Luke's hospital, was summoned to consult with Dr. Markoe. Markoe made a wild auto dash from New York to Glen Cove.

Many professed to see the following as the outstanding facts:

Morgan, financing the allies, was shot by a German-American who frankly said it was done because of Morgan's activity with the allies.

Morgan called his office by phone at noon and assured the firm that the wound was trifling. The announcement of this fact stated the phone was at his bedside.

It was only the quick action of Morgan in attacking his assailant that saved his life. As soon as the shot was fired he sprang upon the man and grappled with him while the butler, calling for help, assembled the frightened household.

In the suit case carried by the man were found three large sticks of dynamite and a bottle of nitroglycerine.

SHOOTING AT GLEN COVE.

(By United Press.)

Glen Cove, L. I., July 3.—John Pierpont Morgan, the financier, was shot at his summer home here shortly before nine o'clock today. The would-be assassin, a man apparently of German descent, who refused to give his name or any account of himself, pushed by the butler at the Morgan home with two revolvers, one in each hand.

Morgan was shot through the groin. His condition is not entirely known.

The assassin pushed immediately into Morgan's presence, and after an exchange of words, opened fire with a .32 calibre revolver.

The first shot entered Morgan's groin and came out at the hip.

The second shot went wild and before a third could be fired Morgan closed on his assailant. He grappled with him and with the butler's assistance disarmed the man.

The man struggled desperately to escape and succeeded once in breaking away, but was recaptured before he could get out of the house.

He was turned over to the Glen Cove police by members of the Morgan household.

At police headquarters, the prisoner, who appeared to be a tramp, refused all inquiries as to his name, business and home. Preparations were immediately made to sweat him.

Morgan recently has been giving much of his personal attention to the enormous contracts held by his firm for the purchase of war supplies in this country for the allies.

EFFECTS ON STOCK EXCHANGE.

(By United Press.)

New York, July 3.—Leading issues of New York stock exchange fell off from one to two points following the news that J. P. Morgan had been shot.

WILL RESIST HER HUSBAND'S SUIT

Clarisa Alice Perkins-Beaver Will Not Submit to Annulment Proceedings, She Says.

SHE EMPLOYES ATTORNEYS

(By United Press.)

Connersville, Ind., July 3.—Mrs. Clarisa Alice Perkins-Beaver, of this city, today declared that she would resist the suit brought by her husband, Roy C. Beaver, of Rushville, in the Rush circuit court, to annul their marriage, which took place June 22. She asserted that she and Beaver had been engaged for a year previous to their marriage and that her husband's father was responsible for the present difficulty. She has engaged McKee, Elliott & Frost to look after her interests.

Beaver alleged in his suit for annulment that the marriage was obtained through fraud and coercion. He asserted in the complaint that a fake deputy sheriff stated he had a warrant for his arrest and compelled him to marry the girl under threats of prosecution.

WILL HAVE WIDE EFFECT IN RUSH

Order From State Board of Health Abolishing Public Drinking Cups in Schools Considered.

WILL CAUSE CHANGE IN CITY

Township Trustees Expected it and Are in Some Degree Prepared to Banish Germ Carrier.

The public schools of Indiana must bid adieu to the public drinking cup, the common pencil and the common towel, according to an order issued by the state board of health forbidding their use in any public school within the borders of the Hoosier domain.

The order will work little hardship here. There are sanitary bubble fountains in the Havens, Jackson, Graham and Graham Annex school buildings, but there is none in the Washington schools, where city water is piped into the building and a public cup is used.

"It will compel us to place bubble fountains in Washington school," stated a member of the Rushville school board when informed today of the order of the state board. "There will be nothing else for us to do."

So far as the rest of the county outside of Rushville is concerned, the order will cause a more drastic change. In some of the township schools and other school corporations in the county, the common drinking cup is in vogue.

However, it was stated by County Superintendent C. M. George today that the township trustees had been expecting such an order from the state board of health for some time and were, to some degree, prepared for it because they had given the matter some thought.

Sanitary bubble fountains have been installed in the graded schools at Carthage, Moscow, New Salem, Milroy and a few other places in the county. But in the one-room school houses of the county, in no instance will the effect of the order be escaped.

Sanitary drinking fountains can be arranged even in the one-room school houses with small expense, the county superintendent said today. There is an apparatus which may be attached to the well which would not cost more than fifty dollars. The only difficulty about a fountain in the yard is that it would freeze up in the winter time. It is believed, however, that the water could be piped into the building and the fountain be provided just the same.

"Each pupil must have an individual drinking cup or sanitary bubble fountains shall be provided," reads the state board's order. "Each pupil must have an individual towel or sanitary paper towels must be provided."

All modern school buildings are equipped with the sanitary water fountains, but hundreds of schools in Indiana still use the common drinking cup. The drinking cup, now that the state board of health has acted, will not be tolerated hereafter.

The state board also condemned the common use of pencils on account of the danger of transmitting disease from one pupil to another. When a pencil is supplied to a pupil, reads the new rule, it shall be the property of that pupil to be kept by him, and must not be taken up and given out again by another pupil.

So far as the public towel and the common pencil orders are concerned, they will have very little effect in Rush county.

SEVERAL INDICTED AGAIN

Mayor Bell and Chief Perrott in List of Thirty-One.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., July 3.—Mayor Joseph Bell, Chief of Police Samuel V. Perrott and twenty-five of the politicians indicted recently by the Marion county grand jury were indicted again today on the final report of the jury. Six indictments were returned, alleging that the defendants sought by violence and threats of criminal prosecution to influence voters. Four others, as yet unknown, were in the list, making thirty-one in all.

ARRESTED FOR SELLING LIQUOR

William Campbell Held Following Confession of Emanuel Dunwoody That he Bought it.

LATER FINED $50 AND COSTS

William Campbell was arrested this afternoon on an affidavit charging the illegal sale of intoxicating liquor. Campbell is alleged to have sold one-half pint of whiskey to Emanuel Dunwoody, the transaction taking place last Saturday.

Dunwoody told on Campbell when he was arraigned this morning on an intoxication charge. Dunwoody himself fined $50 and costs and when he could not pay, Mayor Bebout ordered him taken to the state penal farm to spend sixty days. Dunwoody came across with the information regarding Campbell before he was fined by the mayor. He said Campbell charged him thirty-five cents for the half-pint of whiskey.

Campbell was expected to be arraigned late this afternoon. Another arrest was expected in connection with the case.

BOY DIES RESULT BEING HIT BY AUTO

Nine-Year-Old Son of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Dunlap of Lewisville is Fatally Injured.

JUMPS INTO MACHINE'S PATH

Allen Dunlap, 9 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Dunlap, of Lewisville, died yesterday afternoon at three o'clock from injuries sustained when he was run over by an automobile earlier in the day. The boy, in company with Milton Martin, was riding on the coupling pole of a hay wagon, and when they jumped off failed to see an approaching auto and the Dunlap boy was run over.

He died about three hours later. Besides his parents he is survived by one brother and one sister. The funeral services will be conducted Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence and burial will take place in the Lewisville cemetery.

MAKES REPLY TO THE LOCAL BOARD

Attorney General Gives Opinion on Amount of Mortgage Exemption Law Allows.

DIFFERENCE IN TENANCY

Man and Wife Are Entitled to Only $700 on Property Held Jointly—Other Answers.

In a lengthy opinion Attorney General Milburn has answered the questions brought to the attention of the state board of tax commissioners by the board of review here regarding mortgage exemptions. The attorney general holds that tenants in common are each entitled to $700 exemption. The first question submitted was "what constitutes tenants in common, and are each entitled to a mortgage exemption?"

The answer of the attorney general to this question is as follows: "Tenants in common are persons who hold by unity of possession. The possession of one is the possession of the other and the taking of the whole profits by one does not amount to an ouster of his companions. Tenancy in common is a joint estate in which there is a unity of possession, but separate and distinct titles. The tenants have separate independent freeholds, or leaseholds, in their respective shares which they manage and dispose of as freely as if the estate was one in severalty. Their is no restriction upon their power of alienation and a tenant will inherit the estate."

The opinion on the question of mortgage exemptions on tenants in common follows: "It is to be noted that the mortgage exemption is granted to any person being the owner of real estate liable for taxes etc. A statute which exempts persons or property from taxation is to be strictly construed; therefore, the word 'person' is to be used in the narrowest sense in the statute, provided, however, that all persons, natural or artificial, shall receive the personal benefit of the exemption of $700, therefore, tenants in common having a several interest each capable of alienation, and therefore capable of being mortgaged, are entitled to the benefit of the mortgage exemption upon their several interests each, irrespective of the interests of other tenants in common, but, in no event, may any of the tenants in common receive a total exemption of more than $700 and the assessed value of the property must be at least twice the amount of the mortgage exemption claimed."

The second question was "what constitutes tenants by entirety, and are each entitled to a mortgage exemption?" This question is also answered in the question "what constitutes joint ownership, and are joint ownerships entitled to mortgage exemptions, excepting husband and wife." The opinion follows:

"Tenants by the entireties are as such tenants entitled to but one mortgage exemption for they are, for the purpose of ownership an alienation, in Indiana but one person. Both must point in the application. However, either may have his mortgage exemption upon his or her separate property, provided that there may be taken by either of them, or by them jointly, mortgage exemptions to the extent of not more than $700 each. The mortgage exemption upon the estate held by entireties cannot be more than $700. This would leave a moiety of interest of $350 each which such persons might utilize for the benefit of their separate property. If they have no separate property, the right to exemption is exhausted, when $700 exemption is

WORK ON SHORT LINE NOT TO LAG

Committees Are Appointed to Mark Route and to Get it Listed in Automobile Guides.

RESULTS OF MEETING HERE

Men Living in Towns East of Here Are Appointed and Will Co-Operate in the Work.

Work is expected to start at once in marking and getting the "Dixie Short Line" route listed in the auto-guides. Committees were appointed from Brookville, Rushville, New Palestine and other towns between here and Indianapolis to see the work is done and it is not expected to let the interest lag in the matter.

Before the meeting here yesterday of the Brookville and Rushville associations closed, the committees were appointed so that a working body could go ahead with the plans. The route will be advertised as the short line between and Indianapolis and Cincinnati and a large part of the auto travel between these two cities is expected to be brought in this direction.

The committee on signs and markers is composed of H. D. Smith and J. B. Shirk of Brookville, Dr. F. G. Hackleman and R. G. Budd of Rushville, Senator Eichman of New Palestine, Harry Rogers of Morristown and John Kitley, county commissioner of Marion county. This committee will meet shortly and select signs and markers for the highway. The Dixie Short Line will become a reality and not a fancy as the men on the committee are all interested in good roads and propose to have this highway marked from Indianapolis to Cincinnati with signs giving directions and information to tourists.

Heretofore the auto route in the guides going from Cincinnati to Indianapolis go by way of Brookville to Connersville and then to Rushville. This is a longer route than the Dixie Short line. By marking the route there is no chance for the motorists becoming confused as to directions as the committee plans to mark the route in the best possible manner.

The other committee that was appointed is known as the map and route committee and is composed of the following members: W. B. Boek and I. N. Bridgeman and M. P. Hubbard, of Brookville, A. L. Stewart, the Rev. M. W. Lyons and Theodore Reed of this city, Dr. Mace of New Palestine and W. H. Smith of Fountaintown. A. L. Stewart is chairman of the committee. This committee will see that the Dixie Short line is placed in the auto guides and on the road maps. It is planned to take the matter up with the publishers of the guides at once and it is believed that this route will appear in the next editions.

La Crosse, Wis., July 3.—J. D. Vaughn was excused from jury service because he is a monopolist. He is the only undertaker in town, and didn't want to serve on a jury. Judge C. Judge Higbee volunteered to act as interpreter and refused to let Augdahl off.

PLAN FOR BIG HOME COMING

"Back to Indiana" is Slogan Adopted
by Commission in Anticipation
of Centennial

SOCIETIES ARE BOOSTING

Will be One of The Features And
Exiles Are Expected From
Every State in Union

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, July 3.—"Back to Indiana in 1916," is the slogan adopted by the Indiana Historical commission in anticipation of next year's Centennial celebration. Indians of the present are to reach out hands in "welcome home" to the Indians of the past who are scattered from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Far and near in other states, are to be found enthusiastic Indiana societies, through which the commission intends to make a general appeal to "come back." Once a Hoosier always a Hoosier at heart they say and thousands of self-exiled, expatriated Indians are expected to come trooping homeward.

While the commission extends a formal semi-official invitation, the effective invitation will be extended by the citizens individually. The old latch string will hang out at every home. Indians traveling beyond the confines of the state will act as ambassadors of Hoosier hospitality, calling the prodigals homeward where "The Moonlight's fair tonight along the Wabash."

(By United Press.)

Washington, July 3.—The explosion which wrecked the reception room at the senate end of the national capitol Friday night was that of a bomb. This was conclusively proved today when the Washington Times received a letter, mailed an hour and a half before the explosion occurred. It was announced that the explosion would occur.

"This is the exclamation point in my plea for peace," said the writer, who signed his name, "R. Pearce" on the typewriter.

RATE INCREASE IS POSTPONED

Railroads Voluntarily Advance Date
For Putting Effect Five Per Cent Raise

NOW DUE FOR SEPTEMBER 1

Said to Have Been Caused in Order
That They Will Have Time to
Revise Schedules

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., July 3.—Indiana railroads have voluntarily postponed the effective date of their tariffs giving a general five per cent increase in freight rates. This time the postponement is until Sept. 1.

Asked today whether he thought the matter would be brought to a head Sept. 1, L. E. Oliphant, chief of the tariff department of the Lake Erie and Western road, said he would not venture a guess. He said however, that since the Ohio maximum freight rate law had been repealed there is little more to delay the hearing.

Asking the reason for the long postponement this time, Mr. Oliphant explained that the members of the public service commission indicated that with the hot months coming on it would be pleasant for them to have a postponement to September.

From sources other than the railroad it was intimated today that the reason for the long postponement is not so much the hot weather as a desire on the part of the roads to revise their schedules.

The railroads have been postponing the effective dates of the tariffs month after month awaiting the most expedient time to advance their cause.

NOT ONLY BUG ON VINE.

It appears that F. E. Reed, of Gowdy, is not the only farmer who had a potato vine on which potatoes were growing. Yesterday mention was made of this fact and on the same day a Greensburg newspaper had a story concerning Willis New-som, a Decatur county farmer, who had a similar vine. W. F. Robbins, of Greensburg, Decatur county deputy prosecutor, says that a farmer at Westport had such a freak in 1875. That was a wet year and the farmer said that his potatoes actually had to climb upon the vine to escape the flood.

CAUSED LITTLE INJURY.

Winnipeg, Min., July 3. —June frosts did not seriously injure wheat in this great wheat district, according to experts today. Snow fell in Saskatchewan and frost in the Prince Albert and the Aberdeen districts was very severe. Wheat, however, had gained a good lead over its condition at the same time last year, and although the cold was of course a set back, it did not put the wheat behind its normal condition.

Love Feast a Frost

Try as hard as they may, with brass bands, cabinet officers and other supposed drawing cards, the Democratic state leaders do not seem to be able to stage a single demonstration either by taking the whole state or a congressional district, that will come any ways near approaching the magnitude and enthusiasm of the Republican county meetings that have been held in various parts of the state during the past six months.

"It seems as if every one of our meetings is either a frost or a fight" mournfully observed a well known Democrat after he had heard from the wonderful "rally and love feast" that was held at South Bend last week. He evidently retained in his memory visions of the state wide Redfield meeting in Indianapolis in April which turned out to be a dismal "frost" and the Plymouth meeting which developed into a near fight between John R. Jones, of the "forward looking" forces and Homer Cook of the Taggart crowd.

Democratic leaders had expected the "rally and love feast" at South Bend to accomplish much in the way of dispelling the lethargy that exists in the ranks of Indiana Democracy. This rally had been extensively advertised for many weeks; it had been proclaimed that fifteen bands would be on hand to cheer the interested populace; free feed and other attractions in plenty were billed throughout the district.

The South Bend Tribune, in its report of the rally, says that when Kern arose to speak to the expected multitude there were between 500 and 1,000 people in his audience—less than the number of voters who paid money for places at a Republican banquet held at Greensburg recently.

The Tribune said that the meeting was so small that no attempt whatever was made to carry out the program that had been arranged for the evening. Former State Senator Procter, who was billed to make a speech did not appear he was at a ball game as were three bands that had drummed up the attractions of the public park with the single exception of the Democratic meeting.

After this meeting the report again became current that Kern was anxious to receive an appointment from the hands of President Wilson to a place on the federal bench. A story appeared in the Cincinnati Enquirer on the day after the South Bend "frost" under a Washington date line which it was said that Kern, very much discouraged over the prospect for a Democratic victory in Indiana next year, would not be adverse to saving himself from retirement from the government payroll by joyfully accepting a judgeship appointment if it should come his way.

No announcement has yet been made as to where the next Democratic "frost or fight" alias "love feast" is to be held.

Push, Don't Shove

Push your town along, but don't shove it off the map.
Work for it, and not against it.

You may think that your defection is but a single instance and will have no injurious effect, but you are wrong.

If you are anything but a numbskull there are others who are always ready to follow your lead, even though it result in the wrecking of your home town.

You can't keep your questionable acts under cover. They are bound to creep out, and once in the open they breed like mosquitoes in a swamp.

And you can't kick your home town without breaking your own toe. Pushing is a good thing—but shoving is not so good.

You can push your town along by encouraging home industries.

You can push it along by producing to the limit and keeping the profits at home.

You can push it along by being of it as well as in it, and remembering that every dollar you keep in the town is just that much additional prosperity for the town and for you.

The home merchant knows you, is your friend, and wants to see you succeed.

The mail order man doesn't know you, don't care a rap about you, and never wants to see anything but your money.

Push your town along, brother, but don't shove it off the map.

The loyal citizen never breaks his own toe.

In this country we make strenuous efforts to grow two blades of grass where but one has grown before, while in Germany they are growing hills of potatoes where none have ever been seen before. Let's swap.

Don't lose faith in your husband. Explanations are too tedious.

Do not overeat. It is distressing to the stomach and the pocketbook.

When a man is a man he is useful to other men. Otherwise he is just a carcass.

Stop a minute. Go to a glass. Smile! And you are a better and happier man than you were before.

The man who bespatters other men with mud is worse than the mud he slings.

Many men prate of their sympathy for the under dog, forgetting that what he needs is help.

HOOSIER HISTORY

(Prepared by the United Press from Records in the state Library)

The state of Indiana made its third and last attempt to establish a state bank in 1855. This bank was much like its predecessor except that the state bank was not a stockholder. It was driven out of business by national law imposing a tax of ten per cent on the issues of all banks except those with a national charter.

The present banking laws were enacted in 1874.

claimed upon the joint property. "In respect to joint ownership or joint tenancies, there is no right independent of the other joint owners. The joint tenants have the land by one joint title and in one right. There is no separate or several titles in any of them. Therefore, there is but one ownership of the fee. In consequence, joint tenants are entitled to mortgage exemptions under the same rule as tenants by the entirety and not otherwise. I am aware of the fact that for the purpose of alienation joint tenants may be considered to have a distributive interest, but when such alienation takes place the estate as to such alienee, ceases to be one in joint tenancy and therefore the rule would be different. However, although the joint tenant may have but one $700 mortgage exemption upon their property, they are entitled to receive mortgage exemption upon any separate property which they may own and which may be mortgaged to the extent of the difference between $700 and the prorata amount claimed in the joint exemption."

The fourth and last question submitted to the attorney general was "are firms, co-partnerships and corporations entitled to a mortgage exemption and are the individual members of such also entitled to take the personal mortgage exemption?" The answer is as follows:

"In the matter of firms, co-partnerships and corporations the statute says that such shall be considered as persons. They are, therefore, entitled to exemptions but firms and co-partnerships have no legal entity aside from the persons who compose the same, therefore, they may not have separate exemptions from those taken by the natural persons who are the owners. But one exemption may be had by the firm or co-partnership. The quality of ownership in a firm or co-partnership is joint and several, therefore, the same rule applies as in the case of joint tenants. A benefit of the exemption by a firm or co-partnership cannot exceed $700, but the individual members may have the benefit of mortgage exemption upon their separate properties to the extent of the difference between the prorata benefit had in the one exemption and the $700 to which every person under the statute is entitled, provided, however, that the assessed value of property must always be at least twice the mortgage exemption claimed. In the case of corporations, however, a corporation being capable of separate ownership without reference to the stockholders, the corporation is entitled to the full benefit of the $700 exemption and the stockholders of the corporation may have full exemption upon any property owned by them without reference to their ownership of shares of stock in the corporation which has taken advantage of the mortgage exemption statute."

Scripture Used at Inauguration Shows Presidents' Character

The office of clerk of the United States supreme court has a record of all of the passages of scripture that have been kissed by Presidents at the time of their inauguration; the record dating back to the second inauguration of President Grant. The fact that there is such a record is not generally known, even among high officials at the capital, and its existence was revealed through an inquiry set on foot by the Rev. Daniel Ryan, pastor of the Methodist church at Glenwood, who had heard that there was such a compilation and desired a copy of it.

Strangely enough the list of scriptural passages thus brought into notice in connection with twelve presidential inaugurations never has been published mainly it is a heritage from the late James H. McKinney, long clerk of the highest tribunal in the land. When Mr. McKinney died a year or so ago there was found among his effects a typewritten list of these scriptural citations beginning with Grant and ending with Taft and to this has been added from modern historical information the citation of scripture kissed by President Wilson at his inauguration, making the record complete. No record is in existence however, dating back prior to the last inauguration of President Grant.

The list of citations follows; President Grant (second inauguration)—Isaiah, second chapter, verses 2 and 3.

President Hayes—Psalm 118, verses 11, 12 and 13.

President Garfield—Proverbs 21, verse 1.

President Arthur—Psalm 31, verses 1, 2 and 3.

President Cleveland (first inauguration)—Psalm 112, verses 4 to 10.

President Harrison—Psalm 121, verses 1 to 6.

President Cleveland (second inauguration)—Psalm 91, verses 12 to 16.

President McKinley (first inauguration)—Second Chronicles, chapter 1, verse 10.

President McKinley (second inauguration)—Proverbs 16, verses 20 and 21.

President Roosevelt—James, chapter 1, verses 22 to 25.

President Taft—First Kings, chapter 3, verses 9, 10 and 11.

President Wilson—Psalm 119, verses 43 to 48 inclusive.

The oath of office is administered to the President-elect by the chief justice of the United States supreme court. The clerk of that court then opens the Bible at random and holds the open bible at a convenient height, standing with the President-elect on his right and the chief justice on his left. The President-elect and the chief justice place their hands upon the bible. The chief justice solemnly pronounces the oath the President-elect responds "I do," then kisses the bible and the ceremony is at an end.

In a number of instances the passage of scripture has seemed peculiarly inappropriate. After the Hayes inaugural, for instance, when Clerk McKinney delivered into the hands of President Hayes the bible on which the latter had taken oath he was requested by Mrs. Hayes to read the verses which her husband had kissed in taking the oath of office. Clerk McKinney opened the bible and read from Psalm 118 verses 11 and 12;

"They compassed me about; yea, they compassed me about; but in the name of the Lord I will destroy them."

"They compassed me about like bees; they are quenched as the fire of thorns; for in the name of the Lord I will destroy them."

Mrs. Hayes laid her hand affectionately on President Hayes's shoulder and said;

"The President will not destroy any one."

It is customary for the clerk of the court to furnish the bible and after the ceremony to deliver the book to the President, the President's wife or some near relative to preserve as a keepsake. Yielding to political sentiment however, President McKinley decided that he would be sworn in on a bible to be furnished by a convention of African bishops, at the head of which was Bishop Arnott of Ohio. A few days before the inauguration the bishop appeared at the clerk's office at the capital carrying a family bible of heroic proportions, considerably larger than the last edition of Webster's dictionary. The bible ordinarily used is a small one of what is known as teacher's size. Clerk McKinney surveyed the big book and exclaimed, joyfully;

"Well, bishop, where is the wheelbarrow in which to move this?"

"I will carry it out to the platform, if you cannot," retorted the bishop, and he added;

"I would like to have the bible returned to me after the ceremony so I may deliver it to the President when he is installed in the white house."

The clerk told Mr. McKinley of the bishop's request.

"What does all this ceremony signify?" inquired the President-elect.

"It probably means," replied Clerk McKinney, "that the bishop and a delegation of his colored brethren will call upon you, make a speech, present you with the bible, expect a speech from you in behalf of one of their race."

"I understand," said McKinley. "Mr. Clerk, will you be kind enough to deliver the book to me yourself?"

Clerk McKinney did so, but this did not prevent the bishop and his colored friends from going to the white house and making their speeches.

President Cleveland also departed from the usual practice in regard to the selection of a bible. He requested that a small bible, about the size of an ordinary hymn book, given him by his mother; be used. On the fly-leaf was the inscription;

"Stephen Grover Cleveland, from his mother."

President Roosevelt also asked the privilege of being sworn in on a family bible—the same one he used in taking the oath of governor of New York. The clerk's office still has the bible which was brought with the exception that President Roosevelt would use it at his inaugural of 1904.

President McKinley's gentle disposition fitted very appropriately the passage of scripture which he kissed at his second inauguration;

"The wise in heart shall be called prudent, and the sweetness of the lips increaseth learning."

So, also, the passage upon which President Wilson imprinted his kiss seems in keeping with the Christian character of the president now in office and his advocacy of the teaching of the "Prince of Peace" in the present era of world belligerency gives special emphasis to the following verse;

"I will speak of thy testimonies also before kings, and will not be ashamed."

The office of clerk of the supreme court has in its possession a small Oxford bible which has been in the service of the court in administering oaths to members admitted to the bar since 1808. It was printed at Philadelphia in 1782. When it came into possession of the clerk's office John Marshall was still young upon the bench and had not yet handed down those wonderful decisions which breathed strength and vitality into the federal constitution. This old bible survived the burning of the capitol in 1814. All of the great lawyers who have been admitted to the supreme court bar in over a century have taken the oath on its open pages, with the single exception of Daniel Webster. It is a matter of tradition that when Webster appeared before the court to argue the Dartmouth college case the clerk and his attaches were so frustrated that they forgot to administer the oath to him and it was not until years after they were willing to confess this delinquency. Thus Daniel Webster will go down in history as one lawyer who actually argued a case before the supreme court without being legally a member of its bar.

Likewise there has been one deviation from the rule that the chief justice of the supreme court shall administer the oath of office to the President of the United States. Chief Justice Chase declined to administer the oath to Andrew Johnson and a local judge of the District of Columbia was drafted to attend to that part of the ceremony on that inaugural day.

J. P. MORGAN SHOT BY MAN BECAUSE OF HIS ACTIVITY WITH THE ALLIES

Would-be Assassin Practically Identified as Frank Holt, Former Cornell Professor.

MYSTERY ABOUT HIS WOUNDS

One Statement Says Bullet Entered His Chest and Another That it Penetrated Groin.

ASSAILED AT GLEN COVE HOME

Financier Grapples With Slender Man and Overpowers Him After Three Shots Are Fired.

(By United Press.)

New York, July 3.—An ominous air of mystery concerning the extent of the injuries of J. P. Morgan shot by a would-be assassin in his Glen Cove summer home this morning, was not cleared late today. Although the family repeatedly stated that the wounds were not serious, it was believed this was to allay fears as long as the stock market was open.

There were two statements as to his wounds. One said that a bullet entered the chest and came out under the arm. It was definitely known that a bullet entered the groin and came out through the thigh.

One sensational development this afternoon was the practically complete identification of Morgan's assailant as Frank Holt, a German-American, who was until recently a professor in the German department of Cornell university.

The prisoner gave that as his name and told of his previous connection with Cornell. Inquiry at Ithaca confirmed this and brought a description that closely tallied with the prisoner. Holt left Cornell at the end of the recent college term and had accepted an engagement to teach next year in Dallas, Texas.

The prisoner this afternoon said he shot Morgan because of Morgan's part in supplying the allies with munitions of war.

"I shot him as a service to humanity. I am willing to die for it because the war must be stopped. Morgan was the man who started it and he could stop it at any time," he said.

Physicians observing the prisoner declared him mentally unbalanced.

It became known this afternoon that British Ambassador Spring-Rice was a guest at the Morgan home and witnessed the shooting. He and Morgan were at breakfast when the man forced his way in.

No explanation was offered concerning the presence of the British ambassador except that he was a visitor at Morgan's home. It is public knowledge, however, that Morgan has been handling practically all of the war contracts in America for England and the other allies.

That Morgan's wounds are more serious than has been admitted was indicated by the fact that Dr. Lyle, head of St. Luke's hospital, was summoned to consult with Dr. Markoe. Markoe made a wild auto dash from New York to Glen Cove.

Many professed to see the following as the outstanding facts:

Morgan, financing the allies, was shot by a German-American who frankly said it was done because of Morgan's activity with the allies.

Morgan called his office by phone at noon and assured the firm that the wound was trifling. The announcement of this fact stated the phone was at his bedside.

It was only the quick action of Morgan in attacking his assailant

that saved his life. As soon as the shot was fired he sprang upon the man and grappled with him while the butler, calling for help, assembled the frightened household.

In the suit case carried by the man were found three large sticks of dynamite and a bottle of nitroglycerine.

SHOOTING AT GLEN COVE.

(By United Press.)

Glen Cove, L. I., July 3.—John Pierpont Morgan, the financier, was shot at his summer home here shortly before nine o'clock today. The would-be assassin, a man apparently of German descent, who refused to give his name or any account of himself, pushed by the butler at the Morgan home with two revolvers, one in each hand.

Morgan was shot through the groin. His condition is not entirely known.

The assassin pushed immediately into Morgan's presence, and after an exchange of words, opened fire with a .32 calibre revolver.

The first shot entered Morgan's groin and came out at the hip.

The second shot went wild and before a third could be fired Morgan closed on his assailant. He grappled with him and with the butler's assistance disarmed the man.

The man struggled desperately to escape and succeeded once in breaking away, but was recaptured before he could get out of the house.

He was turned over to the Glen Cove police by members of the Morgan household.

At police headquarters, the prisoner, who appeared to be a tramp, refused all inquiries as to his name, business and home. Preparations were immediately made to sweat him.

Morgan recently has been giving much of his personal attention to the enormous contracts held by his firm for the purchase of war supplies in this country for the allies.

EFFECTS ON STOCK EXCHANGE.

(By United Press.)

New York, July 3.—Leading issues of New York stock exchange fell off from one to two points following the news that J. P. Morgan had been shot.

WILL RESIST HER HUSBAND'S SUIT

Clarisa Alice Perkins-Beaver Will Not Submit to Annulment Proceedings, She Says.

SHE EMPLOYES ATTORNEYS

(By United Press.)

Connorsville, Ind., July 3.—Mrs. Clarisa Alice Perkins-Beaver, of this city, today declared that she would resist the suit brought by her husband, Roy C. Beaver, of Rushville, in the Rush circuit court, to annul their marriage, which took place June 22. She asserted that she and Beaver had been engaged for a year previous to their marriage and that her husband's father was responsible for the present difficulty. She has engaged McKee, Elliott & Frost to look after her interests.

Beaver alleged in his suit for annulment that the marriage was obtained through fraud and coercion. He asserted in the complaint that a fake deputy sheriff stated he had a warrant for his arrest and compelled him to marry the girl under threats of prosecution.

WILL HAVE WIDE EFFECT IN RUSH

Order From State Board of Health Abolishing Public Drinking Cups in Schools Considered.

WILL CAUSE CHANGE IN CITY

Township Trustees Expected it and Are in Some Degree Prepared to Banish Germ Carrier.

The public schools of Indiana must bid adieu to the public drinking cup, the common pencil and the common towel, according to an order issued by the state board of health forbidding their use in any public school within the borders of the Hoosier domain.

The order will work little hardship here. There are sanitary bubble fountains in the Havens, Jackson, Graham and Graham Annex school buildings, but there is none in the Washington schools, where city water is piped into the building and a public cup is used.

"It will compel us to place bubble fountains in Washington school," stated a member of the Rushville school board when informed today of the order of the state board. "There will be nothing else for us to do."

So far as the rest of the county outside of Rushville is concerned, the order will cause a more drastic change. In some of the township schools and other school corporations in the county, the common drinking cup is in vogue.

However, it was stated by County Superintendent C. M. George today that the township trustees had been expecting such an order from the state board of health for some time and were, to some degree, prepared for it because they had given the matter some thought.

Sanitary bubble fountains have been installed in the graded schools at Carlisle, Moscow, New Salem, Milroy and a few other places in the county. But in the one-room school houses of the county, in no instance will the effect of the order be escaped.

Sanitary drinking fountains can be arranged even in the one-room school houses with small expense, the county superintendent said today. There is an apparatus which may be attached to the well which would not cost more than fifty dollars. The only difficulty about a fountain in the yard is that it would freeze up in the winter time. It is believed, however, that the water could be piped into the building and the fountain be provided just the same.

"Each pupil must have an individual drinking cup or sanitary bubble fountains shall be provided," reads the state board's order. "Each pupil must have an individual towel or sanitary paper towels must be provided."

All modern school buildings are equipped with the sanitary water fountains, but hundreds of schools in Indiana still use the common drinking cup. The drinking cup, now that the state board of health has acted, will not be tolerated hereafter.

The state board also condemned the common use of pencils on account of the danger of transmitting disease from one pupil to another. When a pencil is supplied to a pupil, reads the new rule, it shall be the property of that pupil to be kept by him, and must not be taken up and given out again by another pupil.

So far as the public towel and the common pencil orders are concerned, they will have very little effect in Rush county.

SEVERAL INDICTED AGAIN

Mayor Bell and Chief Perrott in List of Thirty-One.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., July 3.—Mayor Joseph Bell, Chief of Police Samuel V. Perrott and twenty-five of the politicians indicted recently by the Marion county grand jury were indicted again today on the final report of the jury. Six indictments were returned, alleging that the defendants sought by violence and threats of criminal prosecution to influence voters. Four others, as yet unknown, were in the list, making thirty-one in all.

ARRESTED FOR SELLING LIQUOR

William Campbell Held Following Confession of Emanuel Dunwoody That he Bought it.

LATER FINED $50 AND COSTS

William Campbell was arrested this afternoon on an affidavit charging the illegal sale of intoxicating liquor. Campbell is alleged to have sold one-half pint of whiskey to Emanuel Dunwoody, the transaction taking place last Saturday.

Dunwoody told on Campbell when he was arraigned this morning on an intoxication charge. Dunwoody himself fined $50 and costs and when he could not pay, Mayor Bebo ordered him taken to the state penal farm to spend sixty days. Dunwoody came across with the information regarding Campbell before he was fined by the mayor. He said Campbell charged him thirty-five cents for the half-pint of whiskey.

Campbell was expected to be arraigned late this afternoon. Another arrest was expected in connection with the case.

In a lengthy opinion Attorney General Milburn has answered the questions brought to the attention of the state board of tax commissioners by the board of review here regarding mortgage exemptions. The attorney general holds that tenants in common are each entitled to $700 exemption. The first question submitted was "what constitutes tenants in common, and are each entitled to a mortgage exemption?"

The answer of the attorney general to this question is as follows: "Tenants in common are persons who hold by unity of possession. The possession of one is the possession of the other and the taking of the whole profits by one does not amount to an ouster of his companions. Tenancy in common is a joint estate in which there is a unity of possession, but separate and distinct titles. The tenants have separate independent freeholds, or leaseholds, in their respective shares which they manage and dispose of as freely as if the estate was one in severalty. Their is no restriction upon their power of alienation and a tenant will inherit the estate."

The opinion on the question of mortgage exemptions on tenants in common follows: "It is to be noted that the mortgage exemption is granted to any person being the owner of real estate liable for taxes etc. A statute which exempts persons or property from taxation is to be strictly construed; therefore, the word 'person' is to be used in the narrowest sense in the statute, provided, however, that all persons, natural or artificial, shall receive the personal benefit of the exemption of $700, therefore, tenants in common having a several interest each capable of alienation, and therefore capable of being mortgaged, are entitled to the benefit of the mortgage exemption upon their several interests each, irrespective of the interests of other tenants in common, but, in no event, may any of the tenants in common receive a total exemption of more than $700 and the assessed value of the property must be at least twice the amount of the mortgage exemption claimed."

The second question was "what constitutes tenants by entirety, and are each entitled to a mortgage exemption?" This question is also answered in the question "what constitutes joint ownership, and are joint owners entitled to mortgage exemptions, excepting husband and wife." The opinion follows:

"Tenants by the entireties are as such tenants entitled to but one mortgage exemption for they are, for the purpose of ownership an alienation, in Indiana but one person. Both must point in the application. However, either may have his mortgage exemption upon his or her separate property, provided that there may be taken by either of them, or by them jointly, mortgage exemptions to the extent of not more than $700 each. The mortgage exemption upon the estate held by entireties cannot be more than $700. This would leave a moiety of interest of $350 each which such persons might utilize for the benefit of their separate property. If they have no separate property, the right to exemption is exhausted, when $700 exemption is

WORK ON SHORT LINE NOT TO LAG

Committees Are Appointed to Mark Route and to Get it Listed in Automobile Guides.

RESULTS OF MEETING HERE

Men Living in Towns East of Here Are Appointed and Will Co-Operate in the Work.

Work is expected to start at once in marking and getting the "Dixie Short Line" route listed in the auto-guides. Committees were appointed from Brookville, Rushville, New Palestine and other towns between here and Indianapolis to see the work is done and it is not expected to let the interest lag in the matter.

Before the meeting here yesterday of the Brookville and Rushville associations closed, the committees were appointed so that a working body could go ahead with the plans. The route will be advertised as the short line between Indianapolis and Cincinnati and a large part of the auto travel between these two cities is expected to be brought in this direction.

The committee on signs and markers is composed of H. D. Smith and J. B. Shirk of Brookville, Dr. F. G. Hackleman and R. G. Budd of Rushville, Senator Eichman of New Palestine, Harry Rogers of Morristown and John Kitley, county commissioner of Marion county. This committee will meet shortly and select signs and markers for the highway. The Dixie Short Line will become a reality and not a fancy as the men on the committee are all interested in good roads and propose to have this highway marked from Indianapolis to Cincinnati with signs giving directions and information to tourists.

Heretofore the auto route in the guides going from Cincinnati to Indianapolis go by way of Brookville to Connorsville and then to Rushville. This is a longer route than the Dixie Short line. By marking the route there is no chance for the motorists becoming confused as to directions as the committee plans to mark the route in the best possible manner.

The other committee that was appointed is known as the map and route committee and is composed of the following members: W. B. Bock and I. N. Bridgeman and M. P. Hubbard, of Brookville, A. L. Stewart, the Rev. M. W. Lyons and Theodore Reed of this city, Dr. Mace of New Palestine and W. H. Smith of Fountaintown. A. L. Stewart is chairman of the committee. This committee will see that the Dixie Short line is placed in the auto guides and on the road maps. It is planned to take the matter up with the publishers of the guides at once and it is believed that this route will appear in the next editions.

TODAY'S ODDDEST STORY

(By United Press.)

La Crosse, Wis., July 3.—J. D. Vaughn was excused from jury service because he is a monopolist. He is the only undertaker in town, and didn't want to serve on a jury. Judge C. Higbee held that Vaughn's excuse was valid. John Angdahl's was a different fate. His excuse for not wanting to serve was that he couldn't understand "high falutin' words" used by the lawyers. Judge Higsbee volunteered to act as interpreter and refused to let Angdahl off.

"Back to Indiana" is Slogan Adopted
by Commission in Anticipation
of Centennial

SOCIETIES ARE BOOSTING

Will be One of The Features And
Exiles Are Expected From
Every State in Union

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, July 3.—"Back to Indiana in 1916," is the slogan adopted by the Indiana Historical commission in anticipation of next year's Centennial celebration. Indians of the present are to reach out hands in "welcome home" to the Indians of the past who are scattered from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Far and near in other states, are to be found enthusiastic Indiana societies, through which the commission intends to make a general appeal to "come back." Once a Hoosier always a Hoosier at heart they say and thousands of self-exiled, expatriated Indians are expected to come trooping homeward.

While the commission extends a formal semi-official invitation, the effective invitation will be extended by the citizens individually. The old latch string will hang out at every home. Indians traveling beyond the confines of the state will act as ambassadors of Hoosier hospitality, calling the prodigals homeward where "The Moonlight's fair tonight along the Wabash."

IS CALLED PLEA FOR PEACE

(By United Press.)

Washington, July 3.—The explosion which wrecked the reception room at the senate end of the national capitol Friday night was that of a bomb. This was conclusively proved today when the Washington Times received a letter, mailed an hour and a half before the explosion occurred. It was announced that the explosion would occur.

"This is the exclamation point in my plea for peace," said the writer, who signed his name, "R. Pearee" on the typewriter.

RATE INCREASE

Railroads Voluntarily Advance Date
For Putting Effect Five Per Cent Raise

NOW DUE FOR SEPTEMBER 1

Said to Have Been Caused in Order
That They Will Have Time to
Revise Schedules

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., July 3.—Indiana railroads have voluntarily postponed the effective date of their tariffs giving a general five per cent increase in freight rates. This time the postponement is until Sept. 1.

Asked today whether he thought the matter would be brought to a head Sept. 1, L. E. Oliphant, chief of the tariff department of the Lake Erie and Western road, said he would not venture a guess. He said however, that since the Ohio maximum freight rate law had been repealed there is little more to delay the hearing.

Asking the reason for the long postponement this time, Mr. Oliphant explained that the members of the public service commission indicated that with the hot months coming on it would be pleasant for them to have a postponement to September.

From sources other than the railroad it was intimated today that the reason for the long postponement is not so much the hot weather as a desire on the part of the roads to revise their schedules.

The railroads have been postponing the effective dates of the tariffs month after month awaiting the most expedient time to advance their cause.

Society News

An attractive pink and white wedding took place Tuesday evening at 5 o'clock at the home of Prof. and Mrs. William L. Woodburn, 1109 Ayars place, when her sister, Miss Pearl Ruby Applegate, became the bride of Hugh Brown of Chicago, says the Evanson, (Ill.) News-Index. The ceremony was performed by Dr. A. W. Jamieson of Rushville, Ind., assisted by Rev. George Whiteside. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Charles Applegate, wore a gown of white satin, trimmed with rose point lace and pearls. Her full tulle veil, which fell to the length of the court train, was held by a Juliet cap surrounded with orange blossoms, and she carried a shower of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. The home was artistically decorated with Russell and Carolina white roses, palms and ferns. Mrs. Brown is a graduate of Indiana university, as is also Mr. Brown, who is now a teacher in the Carter Harrison high school. Among the out-of-town guests were: Dr. and Mrs. A. W. NOT ONLY BUG ON VINE.

It appears that F. E. Reed, of Gowdy, is not the only farmer who had a potato vine on which potatoes were growing. Yesterday mention was made of this fact and on the same day a Greensburg newspaper had a story concerning Willis Newsum, a Decatur county farmer, who had a similar vine. W. F. Robbins, of Greensburg, Decatur county deputy prosecutor, says that a farmer at Westport had such a freak in 1875. That was a wet year and the farmer said that his potatoes actually had to climb upon the vine to escape the flood.

CAUSED LITTLE INJURY.

Winnipeg, Min., July 3. —June frosts did not seriously injure wheat in this great wheat district, according to experts today. Snow fell in Saskatchewan and frost in the Prince Albert and the Aberdeen districts was very severe. Wheat, however, had gained a good lead over its condition at the same time last year, and although the cold was of course a set back, it did not put the wheat behind its normal condition.

Love Feast a Frost

Try as hard as they may, with brass bands, cabinet officers and other supposed drawing cards, the Democratic state leaders do not seem to be able to stage a single demonstration either by taking the whole state or a congressional district, that will come any ways near approaching the magnitude and enthusiasm of the Republican county meetings that have been held in various parts of the state during the past six months.

"It seems as if every one of our meetings is either a frost or a fight," mournfully observed a well known Democrat after he had heard from the wonderful "rally and love feast" that was held at South Bend last week. He evidently retained in his memory visions of the state wide Redfield meeting in Indianapolis in April which turned out to be a dismal "frost" and the Plymouth meeting which developed into a near fight between John R. Jones, of the "forward looking" forces and Homer Cook of the Taggart crowd.

Democratic leaders had expected the "rally and love feast" at South Bend to accomplish much in the way of dispelling the lethargy that exists in the ranks of Indiana Democracy. This rally had been extensively advertised for many weeks; it had been proclaimed that fifteen bands would be on hand to cheer the interested populace; free feed and other attractions in plenty were billed throughout the district.

The South Bend Tribune, in its report of the rally, says that when Kern arose to speak to the expected multitude there were between 500 and 1,000 people in his audience—less than the number of voters who paid money for places at a Republican banquet held at Greensburg recently.

The Tribune said that the meeting was so small that no attempt whatever was made to carry out the program that had been arranged for the evening. Former State Senator Procter, who was billed to make a speech did not appear he was at a ball game as were three bands that had drummed up the attractions of the public park with the single exception of the Democratic meeting.

After this meeting the report again became current that Kern was anxious to receive an appointment from the hands of President Wilson to a place on the federal bench. A story appeared in the Cincinnati Enquirer on the day after the South Bend "frost" under a Washington date line which it was said that Kern, very much discouraged over the prospect for a Democratic victory in Indiana next year, would not be adverse to saving himself from retirement from the government payroll by joyfully accepting a judgeship appointment if it should come his way.

No announcement has yet been made as to where the next Democratic "frost or fight" alias "love feast" is to be held.

Push, Don't Shove

Push your town along, but don't shove it off the map. Work for it, and not against it. You may think that your defection is but a single instance and will have no injurious effect, but you are wrong.

If you are anything but a numbskull there are others who are always ready to follow your lead, even though it result in the wrecking of your home town.

You can't keep your questionable acts under cover. They are bound to creep out, and once in the open they breed like mosquitoes in a swamp.

And you can't kick your home town without breaking your own toe. Pushing is a good thing—but shoving is not so good.

You can push your town along by encouraging home industries.

You can push it along by producing to the limit and keeping the profits at home.

You can push it along by being of it as well as in it, and remembering that every dollar you keep in the town is just that much additional prosperity for the town and for you.

The home merchant knows you, is your friend, and wants to see you succeed.

The mail order man doesn't know you, don't care a rap about you, and never wants to see anything but your money.

Push your town along, brother, but don't shove it off the map.

The loyal citizen never breaks his own toe.

In this country we make strenuous efforts to grow two blades of grass where but one has grown before, while in Germany they are growing hills of potatoes where none have ever been seen before. Let's swap.

Don't lose faith in your husband. Explanations are too tedious.

Do not overeat. It is distressing to the stomach and the pocketbook.

When a man is a man he is useful to other men. Otherwise he is just a carcass.

Stop a minute. Go to a glass. Smile! And you are a better and happier man than you were before.

The man who bespatters other men with mud is worse than the mud he slings.

Many men prate of their sympathy for the under dog, forgetting that what he needs is help.

HOOSIER HISTORY

(Prepared by the United Press from Records in the state Library)

The state of Indiana made its third and last attempt to establish a state bank in 1855. This bank was much like its predecessor except that the state bank was not a stockholder. It was driven out of business by national law imposing a tax of ten per cent on the issues of all banks except those with a national charter.

The present banking laws were enacted in 1874.

claimed upon the joint property.

"In respect to joint ownership or joint tenancies, there is no right independent of the other joint owners. The joint tenants have the land by one joint title and in one right. There is no separate or several titles in any of them. Therefore, there is but one ownership of the fee. In consequence, joint tenants are entitled to mortgage exemptions under the same rule as tenants by the entirety and not otherwise. I am aware of the fact that for the purpose of alienation joint tenants may be considered to have a distributive interest, but when such alienation takes place the estate as to such alienee, ceases to be one in joint tenancy and therefore the rule would be different. However, although the joint tenant may have but one $700 mortgage exemption upon their property, they are entitled to receive mortgage exemption upon any separate property which they may own and which may be mortgaged to the extent of the difference between $700 and the prorata amount claimed in the joint exemption."

The fourth and last question submitted to the attorney general was "are firms, co-partnerships and corporations entitled to a mortgage exemption and are the individual members of such also entitled to take the personal mortgage exemption?" The answer is as follows:

"In the matter of firms, co-partnerships and corporations the statute says that such shall be considered as persons. They are, therefore, entitled to exemptions but firms and co-partnerships have no legal entity aside from the persons who compose the same, therefore, they may not have separate exemptions from those taken by the natural persons who are the owners. But one exemption may be had by the firm or co-partnership. The quality of ownership in a firm or co-partnership is joint and several, therefore, the same rule applies as in the case of joint tenants. A benefit of the exemption by a firm or co-partnership cannot exceed $700, but the individual members may have the benefit of mortgage exemption upon their separate properties to the extent of the difference between the prorata benefit had in the one exemption and the $700 to which every person under the statute is entitled, provided however, that the assessed value of property must always be at least twice the mortgage exemption claimed. In the case of corporations, however, a corporation being capable of separate ownership without reference to the stockholders, the corporation is entitled to the full benefit of the $700 exemption and the stockholders of the corporation may have full exemption upon any property owned by them without reference to their ownership of shares of stock in the corporation which has taken advantage of the mortgage exemption statute."

GIRL BASEBALL PROMOTER

St. Paul, Minn., July 3.—Gladys Carpenter, pretty St. Paul girl, today looked upon as the only girl in the Northwest, giving the whole of her attention to the promotion of baseball. She is working hard as assistant secretary of the St. Paul division of the National Amateur Baseball association, there being a league and five leagues, with 700 kid players here. Her interest in the work is accentuated by her interest in the kiddies, she says. She emphasizes "young boys."

Scripture Used at Inauguration Shows Presidents' Character

The office of clerk of the United States supreme court has a record of all of the passages of scripture that have been kissed by Presidents at the time of their inauguration; the record dating back to the second inauguration of President Grant. The fact that there is such a record is not generally known, even among high officials at the capital, and its existence was revealed through an inquiry set on foot by the Rev. Daniel Ryan, pastor of the Methodist church at Glenwood, who had heard that there was such a compilation and desired a copy of it.

Strangely enough the list of scriptural passages thus brought into notice in connection with twelve presidential inaugurations never has been published mainly it is a heritage from the late James H. McKinney, long clerk of the highest tribunal in the land. When Mr. McKinney died a year or so ago there was found among his effects a typewritten list of these scriptural citations beginning with Grant and ending with Taft and to this has been added from modern historical information the citation of scripture kissed by President Wilson at his inauguration, making the record complete. No record is in existence however, dating back prior to the last inauguration of President Grant.

The list of citations follows:

President Grant (second inauguration)—Isaiah, second chapter, verses 2 and 3.

President Hayes—Psalm 118, verses 11, 12 and 13.

President Garfield—Proverbs 21, verse 1.

President Arthur—Psalm 31, verses 1, 2 and 3.

President Cleveland (first inauguration)—Psalm 112, verses 4 to 10.

President Harrison—Psalm 121, verses 1 to 6.

President Cleveland (second inauguration)—Psalm 91, verses 12 to 16.

President McKinley (first inauguration)—Second Chronicles, chapter 1, verse 10.

President McKinley (second inauguration)—Proverbs 16, verses 20 and 21.

President Roosevelt—James, chapter 1, verses 22 to 25.

President Taft—First Kings, chapter 3, verses 9, 10 and 11.

President Wilson—Psalm 119, verses 43 to 48 inclusive.

The oath of office is administered to the President-elect by the chief justice of the United States supreme court. The clerk of that court then opens the Bible at random and holds the open bible at a convenient height, standing with the President-elect on his right and the chief justice on his left. The President-elect and the chief justice place their hands upon the bible. The chief justice solemnly pronounces the oath the President-elect responds "I do," then kisses the bible and the ceremony is at an end.

In a number of instances the passage of scripture has seemed peculiarly inappropriate. After the Hayes inaugural, for instance, when Clerk McKinney delivered into the hands of President Hayes the bible on which the latter had taken oath he was requested by Mrs. Hayes to read the verses which her husband had kissed in taking the oath of office. Clerk McKinney opened the bible and read from Psalm 118 verses 11 and 12;

"They compassed me about; yea, they compassed me about; but in the name of the Lord I will destroy them."

"They compassed me about like bees; they are quenched as the fire of thorns; for in the name of the Lord I will destroy them."

Mrs. Hayes laid her hand affectionately on President Hayes's shoulder and said;

"The President will not destroy any one."

It is customary for the clerk of the court to furnish the bible and after the ceremony to deliver the book to the President, the President's wife or some near relative to preserve as a keepsake. Yielding to political sentiment however, President McKinley decided that he would be sworn in on a bible to be furnished by a convention of African bishops, at the head of which was Bishop Arnett of Ohio. UP-TO-NOW IN DESIGN

Designs as shown by some firms are more or less freakish or fadish to attract the attention of the prospective customers with scarcely a thought of their wearing appearance or correctness in proportion. But then they are merely on paper and represent but a small loss if they don't take.

We have faith in our ability as practical designers and as proof we show at our works a most complete selection of ready to erect monuments designed by our nationally recognized designer, Mr. A. H. Schrichte. J. B. SCHRICHTE SONS
